Our History

Margaret Pratt was born on the Lower Plain in Bradford in 1905 on her parents farm. Her father was known as the “King of Strawberries” throughout the area. She lived all but 2 of her 98 years in Bradford when she went away to college. Margaret married George Pratt and together they raised 5 children on the farm.

Margaret lived a simple life, devoted to her family, the land and the mountains. Arriving on her porch, you were greeted by planters full of pink and white petunias, and the most perfect view of Mt. Moosilauke in the White Mountains. She was often heard saying that she “got her strength from the mountains.”

After raising a family, Margaret went back to work as a first-grade teacher in Bradford and influenced the lives of countless young children through the years. Margaret also volunteered in town, serving on the Library Board and volunteering at the Congregational Church. She was devoted to her faith, and had a thirst for knowledge, reading and taking correspondence courses throughout her life, while passing on the importance of learning to others.

Margaret and George lived a full life in Bradford, always with a house full of children, grandchildren, friends and family. There was always enough food to go around, and always room for one more person at their table. She tended her vegetable gardens with pride and spent most of the late summer canning food for each winter. Margaret opened her heart and her home to everyone.

When a nursing home in Bradford closed in the early 2000's, a group of local people led by Dr. Jim Barton formed Enhanced Living, Inc., a non-profit organization whose purpose was to develop an assisted living community to serve the local senior population. One of those people, George Pratt Jr., of Bradford brought the support of his family and their resources to back the project, in honor of their mother. Dr. Jim and the Board of Directors were tenacious in their efforts to develop and fund the community, eventually securing financing through USDA and Wells River Savings Bank. Today, Enhanced Living, Inc. owns Margaret Pratt Community and has contracted with Grand Senior Living of Shelburne, Vermont to provide professional management services.

Memory Care

The Gardens Memory Care

The Gardens memory care program at Margaret Pratt Community is inspired by the idea that we are all capable of continued growth if properly nurtured and provided the right environment. The Gardens is named for both the literal garden, the outside space that is an important part of our memory care program, and for the figurative elements that a garden provides, which are incorporated into the daily routines of this special program.

The Gardens is purpose built and planned specifically to assist both staff and residents who work and live in the space. It is an “open” design that provides staff with maximum visibility and residents with the ability to navigate the space without finding themselves in a dead-end corridor, eliminating potential frustrations. The core of the open plan has programmed spaces for dining, activities, entertainment, an internal walking path, and our Greenhouse which leads to the secure outdoor garden.

The Gardens at Margaret Pratt Community provides the most innovative care available in a state-of-the-art setting. Utilizing the widely accepted practices for care published by The Alzheimer’s Association, The Gardens program will care for your loved one with the respect and dignity they deserve.

While memory loss creates difficult changes, life can still be enjoyed. Our caregivers have been carefully selected and trained in the care of individuals with memory disorders. Structured daily programs help residents stay active and socially connected. By focusing on their abilities, rather than their disabilities, each resident’s self-esteem and a sense of dignity are renewed.

MEMORY CARE INCLUDES:

- Private or semi-private apartment with private bathroom
- 3 meals/day plus snacks, scheduled to meet resident needs
- Comprehensive 24-hour daily therapeutic activity program
- Daily personal care and medication management
- Housekeeping and personal laundry services
- Scheduled transportation (personal escorts available)
- 24-hour staffing and emergency response
- Secure indoor and outdoor environment
